Los Angeles, CA (September 29, 2008) - Today, the AIA/Los Angeles announced the finalists in the 2008 Restaurant Design Awards, marking the fourth year of the AIA/LA's much-anticipated awards program that recognizes the very best in restaurant, café, and lounge design. Voting now opens for the People's Choice Award where Angelinos get to choose their favorite establishments from the list of finalists. All Jury Winners and People Choice Award Winners will be announced on Thursday, October 16th at the Restaurant Design Award Ceremony to be held at the Pacific Design Center from 5pm to 7pm in conjunction with the Mobius LA opening night reception.

AIA/LA received over forty submissions in the three categories of RESTAURANT, CAFE/BAR & LOUNGE/NIGHTCLUB. The esteemed jury sequestered themselves in a room for five hours, pouring over digital submissions and graphic collateral material. Starting today, members of the public can vote for their nominee for the People's Choice Award at www.aialosangeles.org. The deadline to vote for the People's Choice Award is Monday, October 13th at 4 PM.

The distinguished jury included: restaurateur and chef extraordinaire Joachim Splichal of the Patina Restaurant Group; architect David Montalba, AIA who is known for designing I Dream of Cake, Kara's Cupcakes, and the sumptuous Monique Lhuillier boutiques in Beverly Hills and Los Angeles; AIGA/LA Fellow and award-winning designer Michael Hodgson of Ph.D; and Los Angeles Magazine senior writer and devoted foodie Margot Dougherty.

"We evaluated projects for their excellence both from an aesthetic perspective but also from an operational standpoint," explained Joachim Splichal. "A good restaurant, café, or lounge must be supremely functional behind the curtain of design."

"It was refreshing to see how good, smart design can really give a project with a limited budget or of a smaller scale such added mileage and value," added Margot Dougherty.

"There is definitely an elevated sense of awareness for restaurant design in this city," remarked David Montalba, AIA. "We're seeing some pretty phenomenal spaces out there."

Michael Hodgson agreed. "With the quality of restaurant design in this city, we hope that more and more designers will think of the Restaurant Design Awards as a great platform from which to promote their work."

"It's always so interesting to see if and how our jury's esteemed opinions differ with those of the public," adds Carlo Caccavale, AIA/LA Associate Director. "Angelinos have a keen sense of design and this is their opportunity to be heard. We encourage everyone to get out there and vote for their favorites before October 13th."
